

FARM AND RANCH BUSINESS HEALTH ASSESSMENT

OVERVIEW AND INSTRUCTIONS

There are nine separate sections covering different aspects of farm and ranch business health. Each question has a number of answer choices, and each answer choice has either a number or a letter. For any question with a numbered answer enter the number in the “score” column. For any question with a lettered answer enter the letter in the # column. Each section has a score, and the assessment as a whole has a score.

The sections and their purposes are as follows:

A. BUSINESS FORMATION

This section is to determine the legal form of the business.

B. LAND

This section is to determine the relationship between the business and the land where the business is conducted and to identify potential legal or regulatory issues associated with the land.

C. ACCOUNTING

This section is to determine the sufficiency of the bookkeeping or accounting system.

D. TAXATION

This section is to determine the sufficiency of knowledge and professional support related to income taxes.

E. LABOR AND CONTRACTORS

This section is to identify possible issues associated with labor or contractors.

F. PRODUCTION AND MARKETING

This section is primarily to gather data about the nature of the operation, but also gathers information that may indicate additional regulatory compliance issues.

G. CREDIT

This section assess credit readiness.

H. BUSINESS PLAN, INSURANCE, ENERGY, OTHER

This section addresses other business issues.

I. PERSONAL INFORMATION

This section gathers personal contact information, demographic data and assesses learning preferences.

FOR FARMERS AND RANCHERS

How should I use this assessment and what does my score mean?

For farmers or ranchers the score indicates the current level of knowledge or skill or business health and indicates the next steps to take to improve business management knowledge or overall business health. You can use your score to set goals for the particular improvements you want to make in your farm or ranch business management knowledge.

You may notice in each section that some questions have a footnote. This footnote corresponds to instructions and additional resources at the end of the assessment. Some questions indicate a high level of importance that you take steps to get more information on a particular subject. Other questions simply guide you to more information.

We know that it is not always easy to find more information on these topics, and we recognize that you may be frustrated by a lack of resources. Our goal is to continue to build out a suite of resources to support this assessment and to continue to work with farm and ranch educators across the country to create a strong network of knowledgeable resource providers.

FOR FARMER AND RANCHER EDUCATORS

How should we use this assessment and what does a score mean?

This assessment can be used to guide curriculum development, to assess learning achieved in your program, to indicate the learning goals your program participants should have upon exiting your program, and to guide program graduates to additional resources to help them continue their learning once they leave the program.

We recognize that not every program covers every subject which is why each section may be scored separately, however we strongly encourage you to introduce your program participants to each and every section so they are aware of other areas of farm and ranch management that might not be covered by your program.

We do not have enough data on scores to make comparative statements. We hope to secure additional funding to conduct enough assessments to gather baseline data about average scores for farms and ranches at various stages of development.
